

УДК 323.21

Anar Tanabayeva,
PhD doctoral student,
Al-Farabi Kazakh National University
Republic of Kazakhstan

PROFESSIONAL CULTURE OF KAZAKHSTAN'S YOUTH AS THE BASIS OF NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Culture Youth of Kazakhstan, namely professional competence and culture are one of the important tasks of youth policy. The article described what purpose has this policy and what the priorities for the development of a society and the state.

Keywords: Youth culture, education, politics of the state, the society, the development, patriotism.

The problem of the culture of young people is relevant in XXI century. Of course, the age of industrialization, modernization, urbanization and scientific innovation contributes to the intellectual and cultural growth of young people. But the process of education of young people, a better transfer of cultural experience of generations requires continuous improvement.

The problem of measuring human culture has always aroused great interest. Youth culture, namely the professional culture is one of the important indicators of social development.

The process of cultivating the culture of behavior of the young person has deep roots: family, family traditions, the environment, including school, university and others. But at some point in life of a young person, especially if it does not happen in a family, you must teach him knowledge of the culture of behavior, etiquette, culture expert, etc.

A visionary politician, the head of our state N. A. Nazarbayev in his Address to the Nation “Kazakhstan-2030: Prosperity, safety and welfare of all Kazakhs” in 1997 determined the course of development of the Republic. Strategic Programme towards the future: the time will pass quickly, and it will be a reality for today’s youth.

The message of the President of the Republic of Kazakhstan “Strategy” Kazakhstan — 2050 “: a new policy established state”, had said that the government is doing everything in order to open up new opportunities for young people. “Billed me today a new political and economic course is aimed at to give you the best education, and therefore more worthy future. I rely on you — the new generation of Kazakhstanis. You must be the engine of the new course” [1].

In modern society, the problem of self-determination and self-assertion of the individual young person is an actual and a priority of the state. Youth of Kazakhstan state aids in the space for the application of their intellectual and innovative potential. The state, being the most influential and powerful political institution, bears principal responsibility for the nature and results of the socialization of the younger generation. The Message of the President of Kazakhstan N. A. Nazarbayev “New Decade — New Economic Growth — New Opportunities for Kazakhstan” determined “young people — the foundation of the future, will have new opportunities to build their future” [2].

High dynamic society, a large flow of information, the complex relationship between humans require raising the question of competence in the educational process, which must master the modern youth.

Core competencies of today’s youth: the ability of lifelong learning: “Continuous model of education”, “education for life”; personal growth: self, activation of internal resources, building a life strategy; develop a high communicative level; partnerships in the team, respect for different cultures, religions, professions, etc.; master the native and foreign languages; master the skills of information technology: to be able to use new information technology.

The cult of knowledge, the pursuit of knowledge — the top level in the hierarchy of values of modern youth. Education serves modern